h c c astwood minister and missionary diplomat and politician enigma in the annals of us history in dominican crossroads christina cecelia davidson explores astwood s extraordinary and complicated life and career born in 1844 in the british caribbean astwood later moved to reconstruction era new orleans where he became a republican activist and preacher in the african methodist episcopal ame church in 1882 he became the first black man named us consul to the dominican republic davidson tracks the challenges that astwood faced as a black politician in an era of rampant racism and ongoing cross border debates over black men s capacity for citizenship as a us representative and ame missionary astwood epitomized black masculine respectability but as davidson shows astwood became a duplicitous scheming figure who used deception and engaged in racist moral politics to command authority his methods davidson demonstrates show a bleaker side of black international politics and illustrate the varied contours of transnational moral discourse as people of all colors vied for power during the ongoing debate over black rights in santo domingo and beyond when the americans invaded the japanese controlled islands of saipan and tinian in 1944 civilians and combatants committed mass suicide to avoid being captured though these mass suicides have been mentioned in documentary films they have received scant scholarly attention this book draws on united states national archives documents and photographs as well as veteran and survivor testimonies to provide readers with a better understanding of what happened on the two islands and why the author details the experiences of the people of the islands from prehistoric times to the present with an emphasis on the japanese okinawan korean chamorro and carolinian civilians during invasion and occupation most of us are fascinated by the conventional storybook account of christopher columbus heroic discovery of america in 1492 yet should the credit for discovering america go to a man who insisted it was but a few islands off the shores of china in terra cognita eviatar zerubavel argues that physical encounters are only one part of the complex multifaceted process of discovery such encounters must be complemented by an understanding of the true identity of what is being discovered the small group of islands claimed by columbus to have been discovered off the shores of asia was a far cry from what we now call america the discovery of the new world was not achieved in a single day but was a slow process mental as well as physical that lasted almost three hundred years by celebrating 1492 as a year of discovery we inevitably distort the reality of history in vividly documenting how a slowly emerging new world gradually forced itself into europe s consciousness zerubavel shows that columbus did not discover america on october 12 1492 supplemented by fascinating old maps and a new preface written for this paperback edition terra cognita will be of interest to historians geographers cognitive scientists sociologists and students of culture
